Creating your Best College Experience:

Find Your Place, Purpose and Path

A virtual webinar

with Elliot Felix

On October 15, 2022, Elliot Felix, author of How to Get the Most out of College and founder of BrightSpot Strategy, shared ideas and tips with FGLI students about how to navigate and get the most out of their college experience. Elliot talked about the importance of seeking out real world learning experiences, being the real you (not a cookie cutter identity), finding community and belonging, and building your network before you need it, among other topics. The students who attended will receive a free E-copy of Elliot's book. For those who could not attend, a video recording from the event is available below:

Recap of the Event

Collective Success Network Celebrates First Generation College Day!

On November 13th, in honor of First-Generation Celebration Day, CSN hosted a party and networking event at PEP bowling in South Philadelphia. Close to thirty people attended, including students from four different Philadelphia-area colleges, CSN staff, founders, and board members. We look forward to hosting more in-person events and would love your ideas about what activities you'd like to participate in.

GIVING
TUESDAY

At this time of year, we give thanks for all the professionals who volunteer as mentors and program facilitators, and to those who believe in our mission and support us financially.

As a reminder, we are a fiscally sponsored nonprofit organization under the Urban Affairs Coalition (501c3), so any donation to CSN qualifies as a tax-deductible charitable IRS deduction and should be eligible for corporate employee matching programs. Please consider including Collective Success Network in your Giving Tuesday charitable donations. A gift of any amount will help us sustain our programs and reach even more deserving Philadelphia area FGLI college students!
