Full-Time Opportunity from Progressive Pipeline

Progressive Pipeline recruits underrepresented college students and places them in paid fellowships with progressive organizations. Then, they offer them the training, mentorships, and connections to become tomorrow's leaders.

No past experience is required or expected.

They partnered with PosiGen, the nation's leading provider of renewable energy and efficiency solutions for low-to-moderate-income households, to build an entry-level staff pipeline for their energy team.

They are recruiting for roles based in Bridgeport, CT; Ewing, NJ; Livingston, NJ; Philadelphia, PA; and Hartford, CT. This position will be in-person and require a valid driver's license.

In addition, all of their internships pay at least $15/hour. Most positions will be remote, however, there are some placements in the NYC and DC areas.

“

I want to engage with a network of other first-generation, low-income students across the Philadelphia region. Oftentimes, our wealthier, more established counterparts have the resources to gain more social capital and connections than us, and I want to become part of a community that breaks that pattern.

Through the Consortium Chapter, I hope to meet other first-generation, low-income students from colleges outside of my own, and to gain insight into how I can advance my career. A community that understands and relates to my situation would be very beneficial towards my journey into STEM.
